Dick:

As I suspected, there is a newer version of the section on security assistance (three copies attached). Sorry I did not get this to you on Friday--I hope this does not add to your labor significantly.

Compared with the earlier versions, this one is considerably pared down. Specifically, the regional discussions have been dropped entirely, evidently to avoid duplication with mam some of the other sections. A summary of the "Issues" is on p. 8, with more detailed discussion of them, and tentative recommendations, on the subsequent four pages. The paper makes a clearer and stronger case than earlier versions did for increased assistance. The key recommendation, under issue #1, is for "sustained real growth in the program over the next five years."
